3 Men Narrowly Miss Death on Micro-wave Road

Three men employed by Coleman Collieries Ltd., on the construction job of building the micro-wave station road were very fortunate last week when lightning struck a series of explosive charges.

The men had just completed wiring of 48 charges of high explosives used to blast the road through rock. They started toward a truck sitting about 50 feet from the closest charges, when lightning struck. The electrical charge set off 24 shots, the men dived under the truck, seconds later large missiles of rock fell. One man stated that "he had gone through World War II and had never come so close to death as he had that day."

The project when completed, will lead to the new micro-wave relay station to be built on the mountain directly behind the Summit Lime Works.

Coleman Miners Working New Hours At Michel Colliery

Starting with the night shift on Saturday, June 2, all departments in the Michel Colliery started operations one hour earlier at 11 p.m., 7 a.m. and 3 p.m. Previously the starting working times were 12 p.m., 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

This earlier starting time will continue till Saturday, October 20, when starting with the night shift on that date the times will revert back to those in effect before June 2. This was in accordance with the ballot taken by the membership of the Michel Local union recently. The result of the ballot, taken on that date as to whether the members were in favor of the one hour starting times for the summer months, showed that 328 voted in favor of the earlier starting time while 225 voted against.

A total of 553 ballots were cast with the ballot taken at the lamp-house.

Royal Purple Entertain Senior Citizens

The Royal Purple Lodge had their annual Royal Purple day on Monday evening when they were hostesses for about 100 members of the Old Age Pensioners' Association. This is to be an annual affair having its start last year and is looked forward to each year by the members of both the Royal and Pensioners.

Prior to the entertainment the regular meeting of the Association took place. Mrs. N. Goulding, president over the meeting, Mr. J. Allen Sr., was elected as first vice-president to replace Mr. H. Drew, who resigned of the Association. The annual picnic of the Association is to be held at the Crow's Nest Lake on Sunday, July 1st. Dicken's bus line will supply the transportation for those not having their own. A lamb cake donated by Mrs. Mysnek will be raffled at the picnic. Tickets for this cake are available from any member. There will be a summer recess during July and August, but the meetings will resume in September.

At the conclusion of the business meeting the Ladies of the Royal Purple took over and provided a wonderful evening of entertainment.

All those taking part in the entertainment were grouped on the stage at the opening of the curtain and sang a welcome to all present. Mrs. A. Vasek, Honored Royal Lady of the Coleman O. O. Royal Purple, then welcomed all and expressed the wishes of all the lodge members.

Mrs. Verma Coop, Mistress of Ceremonies for the evening, got things underway with a general sing-song accompanied by Mrs. I. Spievak at the piano.

The Can-Can dancers then gave a very lively song and dance which was greeted with much enthusiasm and enjoyment. The tumbler members of this group were Doreen Wavrean, Veronica Pontana, Anna Jones and Ethel Kostelnik. A modern version of the Can-Can in appropriate costume was then danced by Irene Caroe, Jean Omelusk, Ange Wilson and Mildred Zak. This was really enjoyed with much laughter by all — even the dancers themselves.

A beautiful solo in an appropriate setting was sung by Mrs. A. Stonehouse. The song "Long, Long Ago" was sung with the stage set as an old-fashioned kitchen with rocking chair. Mrs. E. Nelson acted as the old man in the skit.

A piano duet by Mrs. I. Spievak and Jean Omelusk was enjoyed.

Several selections by the Royal Purple Barbershop Quartette of Doreen Wavrean, Ann Vasek, Ethel Kostelnik and Ann Stonehouse were greatly enjoyed.

Songs of an international nature were then heard. Mrs. A. Vasek and D. Wavrean sang a Slavish song, Mrs. E. Castellano sang two very beautiful Italian songs. Mr. Adam Wilson an Irish song. Mrs. E. Kostelnik sang "When Your Hair Has Turned to Silver". Songs of the British Isles were sung with Mrs. A. Wilson singing a Scottish song; Mrs. A. Stonehouse an English one, and Mrs. E. Kostelnik sang an Irish tune accompanied by Mrs. J. McGregor. Mrs. A. Stonehouse then gave us a lovely Welsh air.

To finish off an enjoyable program the members of the Royal Purple staged a square dance.

Those taking part in the square were Doreen Wavrean, Ethel Kostelnik, Isabel Spievak, Edith Nelson, Irene Caroe, Muriel D'Amico, Hilda Caroe and Isabel Petusk.

Following the grand entertainment a lovely supper was served by the Royal Purple Ladies which was the conclusion of a very enjoyable evening. Mrs. N. Goulding, on behalf of the Old Age Pensioners' Association thanked the officers and members of the Royal Purple for the wonderful evening.

Honored Royal Lady A. Vasek replied and stated that they would have one again next year, that they hoped would be bigger and better.

Rebekah Officer Visits Local Lodge

Mrs. Webb of Blackie, Grand Warden of the Rebekah Assembly of Alberta, paid her official visit to the Victoria Lodge on Tuesday.

Members of the Bellevue and Blairmore lodges were present.

An enjoyable evening was had with brief speeches heard.

Mrs. Jones, N.G. of the Coleman Lodge, presented Mrs. Webb with a gift from the officers and members of the Coleman Lodge. Mrs. Webb very ably thanked all those present.

A very delicious lunch was served at the conclusion of the meeting. This was convoked by Mrs. E. Ledick.

On Wednesday afternoon a tea was held to honor Mrs. Webb at the home of Mrs. Jones, where Mrs. Webb was a guest during her stay.

A midnight frolic will be held in the Elks Hall on July 2 while a three-day Boy Scout Jamboree will provide much entertainment for the young people. A little league ball tournament is being planned together with men's and ladies' ball tournaments. Children's races and games will be held in the Blairmore Ball stadium and a two-day carnival will be staged.

Folk art demonstrations will be on display. The scenic Crow's Nest Pass Golf and Country Club golf course will be open to all visitors coming into the Pass for the weekend. The Crow's Nest Pass band will provide music for the various day's events.

Local Church Groups Win Quilting Prize

Many patient hours and work proved fruitful for the members of the Senior Ladies' Group of St. Paul's United Church when they were prize winners of $50 for their quilt made in a "Dresden Plate" pattern which they entered in the recent Canadian-wide Star Weekly contest of about 600 quilts of all designs and descriptions from all over Canada.

The quilting parties were held at the home of Mrs. J. Nash and during the long winter days a few faithful quilters met and kept at the work faithfully until the quilt was completed.

The Senior Ladies Group have been making quilts for a number of years for sale and this was their first attempt at entering a quilt for competition. This recalls to memory the late Rev. Kettles, a former minister of the church, who several years ago praised the ladies on their splendid work.

Mr. Kettles on asking the ladies how long it took and how much money they would receive for a quilt was quoted a very low price at which time he expressed the opinion that the ladies were performing a labor of love.

This group has as president Mrs. J. Nash, and their secretary is Mrs. Mary McKinnon are to be heartily congratulated for their effort and it is hoped they will keep up the good work and in the future win bigger prizes for their patient and loyal work.

The prize money will be used on alterations of the church.

Coleman Represented at Lethbridge Track and Field Meet

A small team of athletes of Coleman attended the Track and Field Meet at Lethbridge on Saturday, June 9th.

Taras Iwaswi again took Firsts in the 75 yd. and 220 yd events in the boys age group 14 and 15. Due to leg soreness, he failed to jump as well as usual. The winning distance was less than his average.

Eddie Vincent entered the Broad Jump and 120 yd hurdles, gaining 3rd placing in both events. His jump of over 19 feet in the Broad Jump was very good, and with lots of practice, he should be able to jump over 20 feet. He is in the 18 and 19 class.

Judy Maynard was entered in the 60 and 100 metre events for girls 14 and 15. Although Judy did not place, she finished 4th in her events, which was good as she was competing over her age class. The experience gained in these runs should be valuable.

Accident at Summit Lake Crossing Sends One to Hospital

Mrs. C. Ritchie of Bellevue, is in Crow's Nest Pass Municipal Hospital suffering from shock and bruises received in a car accident during the early hours of Sunday morning. Mr. Ritchie, and a grandson, who was sleeping on the back seat, were uninjured.

Mr. Ritchie and his family were returning to their home after visiting with friends in Fernie and were approaching the railway tracks just east of Crow's Nest Lake. Mr. Ritchie slowed down to see if there were any trains coming. It is understood he was struck in the rear by a late model car driven by Walter Bazuk of East Coleman. The force of the crash pushed Mr. Ritchie's car and he ran head-on into the blinker signal post at the crossing, tearing out the danger signal light and pushing it along for some distance. The signal post, when installed was imbedded in a concrete block and buried below the ground.

Both the late model cars were extensively damaged. Bazuk sustained a cut lower lip and other bruises. RCMP of the Blairmore detachment are investigating the accident.

Has Sentence Reduced

The Alberta Court of Appeals reduced the sentence of Robert Morin for breaking and entering the Coleman Cafe, from one year to the time spent in custody, a total of 19 days. He was also fined $50. T. J. Costigan of Blairmore was his attorney.

GARDEN NOTES—

World would become jungle if every weed left to grow

If every seed that sprouted were allowed to grow, this world would soon become a jungle and our gardens an awful mess. Almost everything needs thinning and will do much better with plenty of room. Overcrowded plants get spindly and weak, an easy prey for insects and disease or even a heavy rain.

In almost every case where plants are started from seed and especially tiny seed, like lettuce or alyssum or poppies, they must be thinned later. In doing this naturally we pull out the poorer specimens first, but in any case we must leave plenty of room for full development. If we are afraid of later damage from bugs or cutworms perhaps we will leave twice as many plants as at first, then later on we remove every other one. In certain vegetables like beets and carrots, too, we leave the plants about an inch or so apart at first, then use further thinning for our first meals. When thinned properly, the plants left will grow more quickly, more sturdily and should be healthier.

Thinning is not always confined to seedlings. The extra big and fine blooms you usually see in the flower shows are often the result of thinning. Only in this case it will be the flower buds that are removed. Instead of letting every single rose, peony, or dahlia develop, the professionals nip off about fifty percent or more of the buds so that those that are left will be finer and bigger. The same thing is done with fruit like apples, plums and peaches for big prime results.

Almost any plant can be successfully moved or transplanted when young. There are two major points to keep in mind. We must not allow the roots to dry out and we shouldn't expose them to air. Planting material from a good seedhouse or nursery, one will notice, has the roots well wrapped in thoroughly damp moss, and to make sure air is excluded and moisture retained, there is as well an outer wrapping of damp roof paper or burlap. To make sure those conditions are continued after planting, one presses fine soil firmly about the roots and keeps well watered until growth gets started. With bedding plants or annuals that will only mean a few days, with trees and shrubs it may be several weeks.

Shrubs, trees and vines should be transplanted before they come out in leaf and the nursery stock of these things will never be farther advanced than the bud stage. Annual plants, of course, are in leaf when we transplant but they should not be too far grown. Short stocky plants with no flower buds are much to be preferred to plants on the point of blooming. Indeed if there is any bloom on such things as zinnias, petunias or marigolds it should be removed before we transplant. If there are only a few things to move, one should do the job in the evening and preferably when there is no wind, otherwise shade from sun for a day or two. To speed growth and lessen the shock of moving, it is a good plan to sprinkle a little chemical fertilizer around but not actually touching the roots.

An ounce of prevention—

It is unfortunate but it is true that for almost every useful plant we have in Canada there is some bug, disease, or worm which seems to have a special grudge against it. But a little protection provided in time will save them.

Generally speaking, the very best protection against all those pests is flourishing health. If the garden is free of weeds, well cultivated and growing, there is little risk except from some special insect or disease. But if there are a lot of weeds, if our flowers or vegetable plants are crowded together and growth spindly and weak, then we are simply asking for trouble, and even a mild attack from passing bugs can cause a lot of trouble. The first rule, then, in protection is to keep the garden clean and growing.

The freighter of the plains from about 1750 to 1850, the Conestoga wagon was usually about 24 feet long and could transport a load of up to five tons when tied to a six-horse hitch. Save for its cloth cover, this rare relic of another age is in a remarkable state of preservation.

HYSTERICAL—Wagon is more "hysterical" than historical. (Imagine your probable condition following a fast trip over a rough road while riding the center seat of this triple buckboard.) EXTENSIVE PROGRAM—The map shown here illustrates the various types of work carried out on Saskatchewan's highway system last year, with project markings superimposed to show their relationship to the rest of the provincial highways network. During the 1955-56 season, ending March 31, 1956, new construction and maintenance included a record of 1,538 miles of gravel surfacing; 422 miles of sub-grade construction; 145 miles of bituminous surfacing (blacktop); 225 miles of seal-coating; 100 miles of base course construction; and 73 miles of oil treatment. The map was prepared by the Saskatchewan Department of Highways and Transportation.

Have fun improving your fielding

One of the best ways to improve your fielding ability is to make a game out of it and put it on a competitive basis. The ideal game for this is "goal ball". All you need are a ball, a bat, two sticks, and another baseball player.

Here's the idea. The sticks are stuck in the ground about 30 feet apart to form a goal. One player becomes the goalie, the other tries to hit the ball between the posts. The batter has 15 hits; then he goes in goal while the other player has 15 hits. An official "game" is three innings of 15 hits for each player.

Scoring is as follows. If the goalie fields the ball cleanly without fumbling, there is no score. If he stops it from going through but doesn't field it cleanly in his hands without a fumble, the batter scores a point. If the ball goes through the goal the batter scores two points.

The ball must be hit so that it bounces at least once before it gets to the goal.

Correct arm action for the crawl

Here are a couple of tips which will help you improve your swimming technique this summer.

When moving your hand forward in the crawl, don't reach out too far. Your hand should enter the water before the arm is straightened. The reason for this is that a slightly bent arm can produce a lot more power than a straight arm.

Another thing to concentrate on is getting your hand in the water before the elbow. If your elbow enters first, your arm will slip down into the water—in effect, you will be pushing against the water and slowing yourself down.

Many broad jumpers seeking to improve the height of their jump train with a hurdle or some such object which they have to clear in their practice jumps. The theory is that this will train them to jump high, and since speed plus height equals distance in the broad jump, hence their jumping ability will be improved.

However, there's one major flaw in this method of achieving height. The jumper's vision is directed either straight ahead or down. To attain height consistently when the hurdle isn't there, the eyes should be looking upwards. In addition, the hurdle often interferes with certain styles of broadjumping.

A much better idea is to have something suspended above the jumping pit at which you look as you jump—after first making sure that you're going to hit the board, of course. This teaches the action of "looking high" every time you jump, and helps you get that necessary height.

Physical deterioration

By WILLIAM D. ROSS,
(Field Representative, Fitness and Recreation Division)

PART I

In a booklet entitled, "Physical Education: An Interpretation", published by the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation there is this statement: "Children who are in normal physical condition need two to four hours of vigorous activity each day."

Many children in Saskatchewan are getting nowhere near this amount. The children's day is devoted to sleep, classes, meals, homework, dressing, school bus, and other non-vigorous miscellaneous activities. On top of this television is beginning to devour what little remaining time is available for active play.

Physical Education in the schools could help provide the antidote for the poison of inactivity. However, the cruel fact is that in many schools Physical Education is virtually ignored. Although it is a required subject, a large number of children and youth are scrippily harmed by being shortchanged in this phase of their educational experience.

The general effect of inactivity is physical deterioration, that is, low levels of physical fitness. Postural defects, slowness or inability to master physical skills, poor physique, hypokinetic disease, difficulty in social adjustment and reduced general learning potential are frequently symptomatic of low levels of physical fitness. Dr. H. Harrison Clarke, Research Professor at the University of Oregon, in a fine article appearing in the 1955 Fall issue of Saskatchewan Recreation refers to research which seem to substantiate these claims.

Another pertinent report summarizing research findings along this line is Hypokinetic Disease: Role of Inactivity in Production of Disease published by the Institute for Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, New York University, Bellevue Medical Centre. Gleanings from research studies in Britain are that coronary heart disease is twice as frequent in sedentary men as in the active.

Other diseases more frequent in the sedentary than the active are diabetes, duodenal ulcer, and a number of other internal and surgical conditions. The cause of low back pain, it is reported, in over 80 percent of the cases can be attributed to muscular deficiency while less than 20 percent is due to pathological conditions.

A large number of orthopedic difficulties including stiff neck, painful shoulder, painful back, etc., as well as tension headaches have been often effects of insufficient physical activity, or as the report states, "insufficient outlet for fight or flight responses."

The evidence revealed by the studies in this report and others point up an undeniable fact. The human organism needs exercise, it is a physiological necessity for its growth, development and proper functioning. There is no substitute.

Romantic, exciting traffic jam in days of horsepower vehicles

People today seem to think that, heavy traffic and traffic police are a consequence of the automobile. Nothing could be farther from the truth, says Timothy G. Turner in the Los Angeles Times. In the days of horsepower vehicles, there were traffic jams in every large American city. And the traffic police with their helmets and clubs, were at every intersection.

The horse suffered in warm and in cold weather. In hot weather he suffered a variety of heat prostration, and in winter he slipped on the ice. And if it rained and then froze, his body was covered with ice, his hoofs if he had to stand, encased in it. When a horse failed, or if vehicles had their wheels locked, traffic jams resulted, and the police worked valiantly, sometimes for hours to untangle the mess. Horse accidents were common and serious; both for riders and drivers. There were runaways, for the horse is an emotional animal and will run away when he sees an umbrella or a newspaper being blown down the street. When he sees an elephant in a circus parade, he goes quite insane.

Exciting traffic jams. The traffic consisted of hansom cabs, one-horse vehicles with the driver on top; broughams, which the high-toned folks rode in; stanhopes, with the coachman on a rumble seat in back, while his master or mistress did the driving; elegant landaus, and the ubiquitous buggies.

The traffic jam could be much more interesting than one of today. I remember one when I was driving with my father in Chicago from the loop to the north side.

It seems that somewhere in the traffic was a stallion, and he had raised his nose, looked around and whinnied. The drivers lost control of their horses. The stallion would not go on. The mares would not go on.

The police yelled instructions to the drivers who could not obey them. The police blew their whistles. The mares and stallion whinnied harshly than ever. Drivers of the wagons used the most awful language. Ladies in the carriages stopped their ears, or covered their faces.

But what a charming sight! A traffic jam caused by romance. How cold and unromantic by comparison are our traffic jams today!

Insect pests and the dairy industry

Each year dairy profits in Canada are reduced considerably by insect pests. In a survey of losses completed this year by Dr. A. W. A. Brown, Head, Department of Zoology, University of Western Ontario, Seventy million of this loss can be attributed to pests of cattle. Obviously there is a need for improving modern control methods and any steps leading to a reduction of these losses must be encouraged.

During fly time, horn flies alone can cut milk production as much as 10-20 percent, and heel flies cause much annoyance when they are laying eggs that milk flow suffers. In certain areas black flies have killed many valuable cattle. During the winter months warbles and lice may cause unthriftiness and disease in dairy herds, resulting in poorer returns to the producer. Considerable sums have to be spent each year to control household pests, such as house flies in dairy processing plants. Also additional costs are incurred to prevent losses by cheese mites, cheese skippers and other pests in storage rooms.

Canadian entomologists have done a great deal of work to reduce losses to the dairy industry but they still have a long way to go. The 1956 World Congress of Entomology to be held in Montreal this coming August will give scientists in this field from all over the world an opportunity to discuss the problems of insect control in this branch of agriculture.

We'd like to wish the places the cameramen visits to take the pictures which appear in travel folders of places to visit.

Seen and Heard About Town:

Saw two well-known fishermen return from a fishing trip. But heard no tales of the one that got away. Matter of fact heard no fish stories about the one caught. Did you catch any, Dave and Scotty.

Coleman is sure brightening even truckers giving the old work up, stores painted, cars washed, horses a thorough washing, makes a person feel good in this clean atmosphere. Everybody seems to be talking Rodeo these days and wondering if the weather will co-operate. Sure hope so.

Pony leaguers all excited about Sunday's game, hope the luck will. Must go and see this game. Went to visit a neighbor on Sunday. He had troubles. Too much dirt to move from his new cesspool. Wonder where all that earth came from. Well Maurice keep up the good work. You will get done some day.

Stocking Program Improves Angling

Alberta fishermen will be able to enjoy many hours of rewarding angling as a result of the 1955 fish stocking program carried out by the Fish and Game Branch of the Department of Lands and Forests. Species included in last year's program were Arctic Grayling, Cut throat trout, Eastern brook Trout, Loch Leven Trout, Rainbow Trout, Salmon, Perch, Pickerel and Pike.

A total of 9,753,947 fish, made up of eyed eggs, fingerlings, yearlings, two-year and adults, were seeded in 103 provincial lakes, streams and reservoirs.

Included in the stocking program were waters in the following districts: Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, Cardston, Pincher Creek, Claresholm, Hush River, Calgary, Hanna, Didsbury, Red Deer, Rocky Mountain House, Camrose, Ponoka, Vermilion, Edmonton, Athabasca, St. Paul, Lac la Biche, Peace River and Grande Prairie.

Some of the larger plantings of the year included 125,000 Rainbow trout fingerlings in Sherburn Lake near Lethbridge and Jensen Reservoir near Cardston; 102,000 Rainbow fingerlings in the Sounding Creek Reservoir in the Hanna district; 76,270 Rainbow and 75,000 Arctic Grayling fingerlings in Camp Lake of the Vermilion area; 51,000 Rainbow fingerlings in Hasse, Cottage and Half Moon Lakes near Edmonton and 79,780 Rainbow fingerlings in Thoben Lake in the St. Paul district.

Other sizeable plantings of Rainbow trout were made at the Cavan and Armstrong Reservoirs near Medicine Hat; Long, Mary's and Mami Lakes in the Cardston area; Lee and Island Lakes and the Camp Creek Reservoir in the Pincher Creek district; Kedo Lake and Kutzli's Reservoir near Claresholm, and the Commodore Allen Reservoir in the High River district.

East of Calgary ponds seeded include Anderson's and Severn Creek Reservoirs, Kathol Lake and the North Fork Sheep River below Millarville. West of Calgary there are Skinner's, Burby, Seriville, Elbow and ocaterra Lakes that will offer some good trout fishing this year.

Deadfish Reservoir near Hanna was planted with Rainbow trout fingerlings and adult Perch were added to the waters of the Hanna, Castor and Olsen Reservoirs and Chissler Lake.

Eastern brook trout, Loch Leven trout and Rainbow were planted at Fair Creek, Little Red Deer river and the Waterstreet, Snowden and Eagle Lakes in the Didsbury area.

A number of lakes and creeks good for fishing in the Rocky Mountain House area that have been stocked with trout include Crimston, Mud, Cow, Mitchell, Strubel, Twin Lakes and Rainy and Open Creeks.

Good Perch fishing can be found at Little Beaver Lake, Third Mosquito Lake and Magic Lake in the Camrose area. The Vermilion area also has a number of excellent trout lakes in Sedge-wick, Kravetz, West and Dilberry.

The Edmonton district has Chichako, Star, Sauer and Whitewood Lakes recently stocked to offer good trout angling.

A detailed listing of all lakes stocked in 1955 may be obtained by writing to the Fish and Game Branch, Department of Lands and Forests, Edmonton.

Advertising...

Modern advertising is a necessity to hold and build business. Be proud of your business, of the goods you have to sell, of the services you have to offer in your particular line. Show the progressive spirit and the desire to serve by advertising. Do not hide your light under a bushel — proclaim far and wide who you are and what you have to sell and where your place of business is, for public memory is short, and advertising is a powerful aid to all types of businesses. Moreover, people as a general rule shop where they are invited.

Fight To Control Forest Fires

Battling to save Alberta's forest from fire, crews of fire-fighters and officers of the Alberta Department of Lands and Forests have been struggling for over two weeks to control fires which have broken out in virtually every forested area of the province.

Typical of this fight to save million dollar stands of timber throughout the province, are the efforts of 175 men in the Whitecourt area, 116 miles north-west of Edmonton, where fires devastated 325 square miles of forest in the short span of 12 days.

Nerve centre of the fire fighting operation is the forestry headquarters in the town of Whitecourt. W. J. MacGregor, Assistant Forest Superintendent, (upper left) locates the source of a new fire on his map of the area from reports that have been radioed in from ranger lookout stations.

A new pillar of smoke (upper right) is spotted by the forest ranger and its direction from the lookout tower is sent by short wave radio to headquarters. From directions given by two or more lookout towers, the source of smoke is plotted, and a stand-by crew of four men is then sent to help the ranger put out the blaze.

If the blaze is too large for the standby crew, additional men and supplies are rushed out to join in the fight. A main camp is set up and bulldozers slash their way through the dense stands of timber to reach the burning area. Uprooting trees and opening wide fireguards around the fire, the bulldozers work day and night to circle the fire with protective fire lanes.

Many areas, inaccessible by road have to be served by the 34-foot long-boat (lower right) of the Whitecourt forestry division. Men and supplies are loaded into the boat and they are carried to the site of the fire.

Working to control the spread of more fires, the crews of men put out all the spot fires that have been started by burning embers that are sometimes carried for miles by winds and updrafts caused by the fiercely burning trees.

The fires, which fire fighters believe to have been most commonly started by human carelessness, will only be stopped by a heavy rain. When the fires are put out crews will have to patrol all the burned areas until next winter. Every spark of fire in the trees, roots, and burning muskeg must be extinguished before the forest will be safe from its greatest enemy.

will we be able to sponsor a team with the high cost of player material today. Bellevue tried it and failed as we all know. This project, if undertaken, will require some very considerable thought. Let's not jump too soon. All Pass towns will have to consider to what degree they are willing to support this venture. Well, only time will tell if the rumors are true.

Legion Sports Active

Last week saw the return of lawn bowling to the Legion greens. Most active in this sport on opening day was Mr. Harry Drew, one of the most enthusiastic bowlers. Many others were on hand also to give Harry a good game. The greens are in fair shape and the season promises to be a good one. It is understood that lights will be installed again this year so as to provide night bowling. Each successive year finds more and more enthusiasts to this fine game.

Another sport receiving considerable attention is softball, or as it is now known, fastball. The Legion has sponsored from its membership a team to compete in a five-team league comprised of Coleman Legion, Blairmore Legion, Blairmore Vascabonds, Hillcrest Miners Club and the Bellevue Legion. Caps and sweaters are on order for the Coleman Team and are expected any day. For the next few weeks there will be many an ache and pain suffered by these chaps. Age has taken its toll of a good number of the players and as a result pains will be more pronounced. Good luck fellows, we should see some good ball before the season ends.

NOW WE TELL ONE

An irate chief engineer was inspecting a stretch of newly built road, accompanied by the foreman in charge of the gang. He pointed out to the bewildered foreman that the shoulder beds were off, the curves banked wrong, the foundation not right, the levelling was far from perfect.

Finally, after the avalanche of criticism, the old foreman spat on the ground, gave his superior a bland look and asked, "Well how is it for length."

Two men in a dining car were ordering breakfast. The first one said to the waiter,

"George, you may bring me two fried eggs, some broiled Virginia Ham, a pot of coffee and some rolls."

The second man said: "Bring me the same." Then he added, "Just eliminate the eggs."

"Yassa."

In a moment the waiter came back.

"Seuse me boss, but just what did you all say about dem aigs."

"Yassa." And the waiter scurried back to the scullery. In a moment he came back once more, leaned confidently and penitently over the table and said:

"We had a bad accident jest afo' we left de depot dis morning boss, and de 'liminator done got busted off, right at de handle. Will you take yo aigs fried same as dis hyar genman?"

Ukrainians To Hold National Festival

A national festival of Ukrainian folk songs, music and dances, without parallel in the annals of Canada, is scheduled to take place in the city of Winnipeg on July 6, 7 and 8. Together with other important cultural events, it will bring to a great national climax the colorful and country-wide celebrations of two historic Ukrainian anniversaries. These are the birthday centennial of the renowned Ukrainian poet and writer Ivan Franko, and the 65th anniversary of the Ukrainian settlement and life in Canada.

Thousands of Canadians are therefore expected in the festival city on the first week-end in July. Travelling by special train and automobile, they will come from every large city in Canada, from the bordering towns and hamlets of Saskatchewan and Ontario, and from numerous villages and districts in the province of Manitoba. Thousands more, unable to get away for the celebrations, will follow the great events of the festival with interest and goodwill.

While the Ivan Franko centennial will be observed in most countries of the world, it is Canada—and Winnipeg—that will have the distinction of holding the greatest celebrations of any English-speaking nation. A centennial committee of 500 citizens from every walk and community of Ukrainian life in this country is the organizing force behind the gala festival events of July 6, 7 and 8.

According to reports from festival headquarters, an estimated 1,000 Ukrainian folk singers and dancers, musician and performers will appear on the stage of the Winnipeg Arena on the evening of July 7. Special features at the Arena will include the captivating songs and dances of a traditional Bukovinian wedding; a dramatic tableau in tribute to the Ukrainian pioneers of Canada; and an exciting and original Canadian wheat dance.

Unfamiliarity with the Ukrainian language will not be a barrier to those attending the festival. The program and commentary will be conducted in English language, in addition to the extensive program notes. For the first time, in a new way, Canadians of every origin will be able to share some of the brightest gems from the rich Ukrainian heritage, and to understand and appreciate the Ukrainian story in Canada.

The three-day events in Winnipeg begin with a festival of on-air plays by Ivan Franko, in the Ukrainian language, Friday evening, July 6. On Saturday afternoon, at two o'clock, ceremonies will be held officially opening the Ivan Franko museum at Pritchard and McGregor streets. This museum, a worthy contribution to the cultural institutions of Canada, has been richly endowed with reproductions and exhibits from the works of Ivan Franko. These are the gifts of the people of Ukraine to their kinsmen and the people of Canada.

On the evening of the same day, at 8:15 p.m., the Winnipeg Arena will be the scene of pageantry and celebrations. On Sunday, July 8, an all-day excursion to the Ukrainian Camp in Rusavick will conclude the festival week-end with picnic fun and an outdoor concert.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

hello, gorgeous

By Roy V. Price

THROUGH the steam-clouded luncheon window, Betty saw Pat by the gas pump showing the pistol to her father. Strictly big mouth! she thought, slamming the cast-iron skillet on the back of the stove.

"Hello gorgeous! Just like I told you," Pat beamed, strutting in. "The firing pin in your old man's blunderbuss is worn short. But chances are you won't need it."

"Why aren't you at work?"

"Saturday afternoon. As usual, there's a dance tonight and, as usual, how about going with me?"

"As usual . . . certainly not!"

"I'll be here tonight to take you gorgeous."

"No!"

"Wear that green dress you wore when you first knocked my eyes out with your beautiful face . . . and, ah, . . . your gorgeous figure!" His face twisted up as he winked. "See you tonight, gorgeous."

"No!"

"From the door, he threw her a kiss and she turned her back."

Since his crew started laying concrete a mile down the road, he had been coming in daily. She had seen plenty like him, but none quite so conceited! She'd even lain awake nights thinking of ways to take him down a notch. Just because he'd made All-State fullback and went around building roads in a loud red-checked shirt was no reason . . .

Late afternoon her father rung up the big sign, "No gas." He stuck his head in the door and said, "Hold it down, duchess. I'm going to town."

No good reason, she thought of how the back of Pat's neck looked after a haircut.

A tall, well-dressed man entered. He slumped on a stool and ordered ham and eggs. He kept his hat pulled down low. Suddenly Betty froze before the stove.

From the radio on the shelf came the news: "... two service stations on route 1 robbed this afternoon . . . tall, well-dressed man . . ."

Betty's hand tightened on the handle of the skillet. The man stood up. He did not seem to hurry but was around the counter before she had time to move. The next instant he had grabbed her pistol from the shelf under the cash register. His other hand seized her wrist.

"The money, baby. And not a sound, if you want to live!"

He gestured with the pistol, but it was not the gun she feared. Her hands trembled as she tried to unlock the compartment in the cash register drawer where the folding money was kept. Then, as a sound from outside broke on her ears, her heart stood still . . .

"Hello, gorgeous . . . Pat stood in the door. His eyes clung to the pistol in the man's hand.

"It's my gun!" she blurted.

Pat flung himself at the man, who shifted sinuously. Pat came up grinning, sure of himself in a rough and tumble.

Betty stifled a scream as the stranger went to work on Pat. He was as deadly as though he had done this sort of fighting daily. Now he stood over Pat, who was writhing on the floor, hands clutching his groin. The man had used the pistol like a club.

Betty saw Pat quite clearly now, saw him stripped of his assurance. For once, no wisecrack. Her side felt hot. Only then did she realize she was pressing against the stove. She came to life. Her hand closed around the handle of the skillet. With all her strength she hurled it. It sailed over the counter, straight and fast. It landed squarely on the back of the man's head. He sprawled.

Her father and the highway policemen were here now and she was on her knees, bathing Pat's face. She saw the deep humiliation in his eyes. He got to his feet slowly. Quietly, he eased out the door.

Suddenly it came to Betty. Only when she had seen him in danger and stripped of his assurance had she realized it.

She caught up with him. "If we're going to that dance, we'd better get a move on." She was going to add, "Gorgeous!" but his mouth was pressed so hard against hers, she could scarcely breathe.

Ocean salt rich in vital spices

Someday you may sprinkle your food with ocean salt to give yourself some vital spices of life and health.

These "spices" would be traces of minerals like iron, calcium, fluorine and iodine to ward off anaemia, rickets, tooth decay and goitre.

Ocean salt is rich in all of them—and more than 30 other minerals—besides the sodium chloride of pure table salt. Perhaps many of the 30 others are also spices of healthy life.

These potentialities in sea salt were described to the American Chemical Society in a report by Drs. Arnold E. Schaefer, Olaf Mikkelsen, R. B. Ing, and the late H. R. Sandstead of the National Institutes of Health and National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases, United States public health service.

About 70 percent of sea salt is sodium chloride or ordinary salt; the rest is made up of traces of all the other minerals. Many people over the world eat only ocean salt, getting it by evaporating sea water.

Helps many diseases

Goitre, caused by lack of iodine, is virtually unknown among them.

Rickets from lack of calcium is not common, even though many of these people don't get enough calcium in their foods.

Many also avoid anaemia from lack of iron because the iron in sea salt, the scientists said.

People in some areas of India have far less tooth decay than many North American children, and may well get their fluoride protection through sea salt, the report said.

The scientists cited a Rutgers University study which found that pigs receiving sea salt gained more weight and appeared superior to pigs eating the same food spiced with regular salt.

Coleman Property Owners 'Please' Check Your Septic Tanks

Coleman residents please check the coverings of your septic tanks or cesspools to see that they are safe. Last week in the town of Creston, B.C., a small lad aged six and a half lost his life when he fell through a small hole in a septic tank and drowned. If the covering on your tank is weak or faulty, then this tragic event could happen here. It doesn't cost much or take much time to give the required repairs and then you know your tank is safe.

The Coleman Journal urgently requests that you check and repair any faulty openings in your tank today, so that our columns will not carry an obituary such as happened in Creston.
